

Jayhawk Junior Musicians

June 8-10, 2016

Murphy Hall, KU School of Music

A summer music camp for children entering grades 3-6 at the University of Kansas School of Music

About the Camp

The Jayhawk Junior Musician's Camp is a day camp for children entering grades 3 through 6 who are seeking learning experiences in singing, reading and writing music, playing classroom instruments, building a music listening repertoire, moving to music, and creating music. The camp is designed to offer a variety of musical learning opportunities during each of the three days.

Camp participants will cycle through the following classes during each day of instruction:

- a) Singing, learning new songs and rehearsing music reading and vocal production;
- b) Reading and writing music through both pictorial (pictures) and symbolic (music notes) presentation of music;
- c) Playing classroom instruments, reading and creating music on xylophones, metallophones, baritone ukeleles, autoharps, and recorders;
- d) Building a listening repertoire through active engagement in responding to a variety of kinds of music;
- e) Moving to music, by physically engaging in dances, singing games, and choreography; and
- f) Creating music by singing and playing through improvised patterns of sound.

Camp Instructors

The camp instructors are Dr. Debra Hedden, Director of Music Education in the KU School of Music, and Mrs. Debbie Brown, a doctoral student in Music Education. They both bring a wealth of public school music teaching experience to the program.

June 8-10, 2016

Murphy Hall, KU School of Music

9:30 a.m. - 2:30 p.m.

Ages: Children entering grades 3-6 in the 2016-2017 School Year

Tuition: $140

Deadline: June 1, 2016

Requirements: Participants will need to bring a brown-bag lunch each day

Registration: Online registration begins in March

www.musiccamp.ku.edu

Click on "Jayhawk Junior Musicians" on the left side of the page for a link to the online registration form.